This could be the day for Harlan's New Town

Livermore no-growth buffs hit

OAKLAND — Supervisor Valerie Raymond, Livermore city officials, and their "no-growth" supporters are standing in the way of minority progress in the Valley, developer Harlan Geldermann has said in a press release.

Geldermann, accused by some opponents as not being specific enough about his New Town proposal for the Las Positas Valley, added more specifics to the four year civic dialogue.

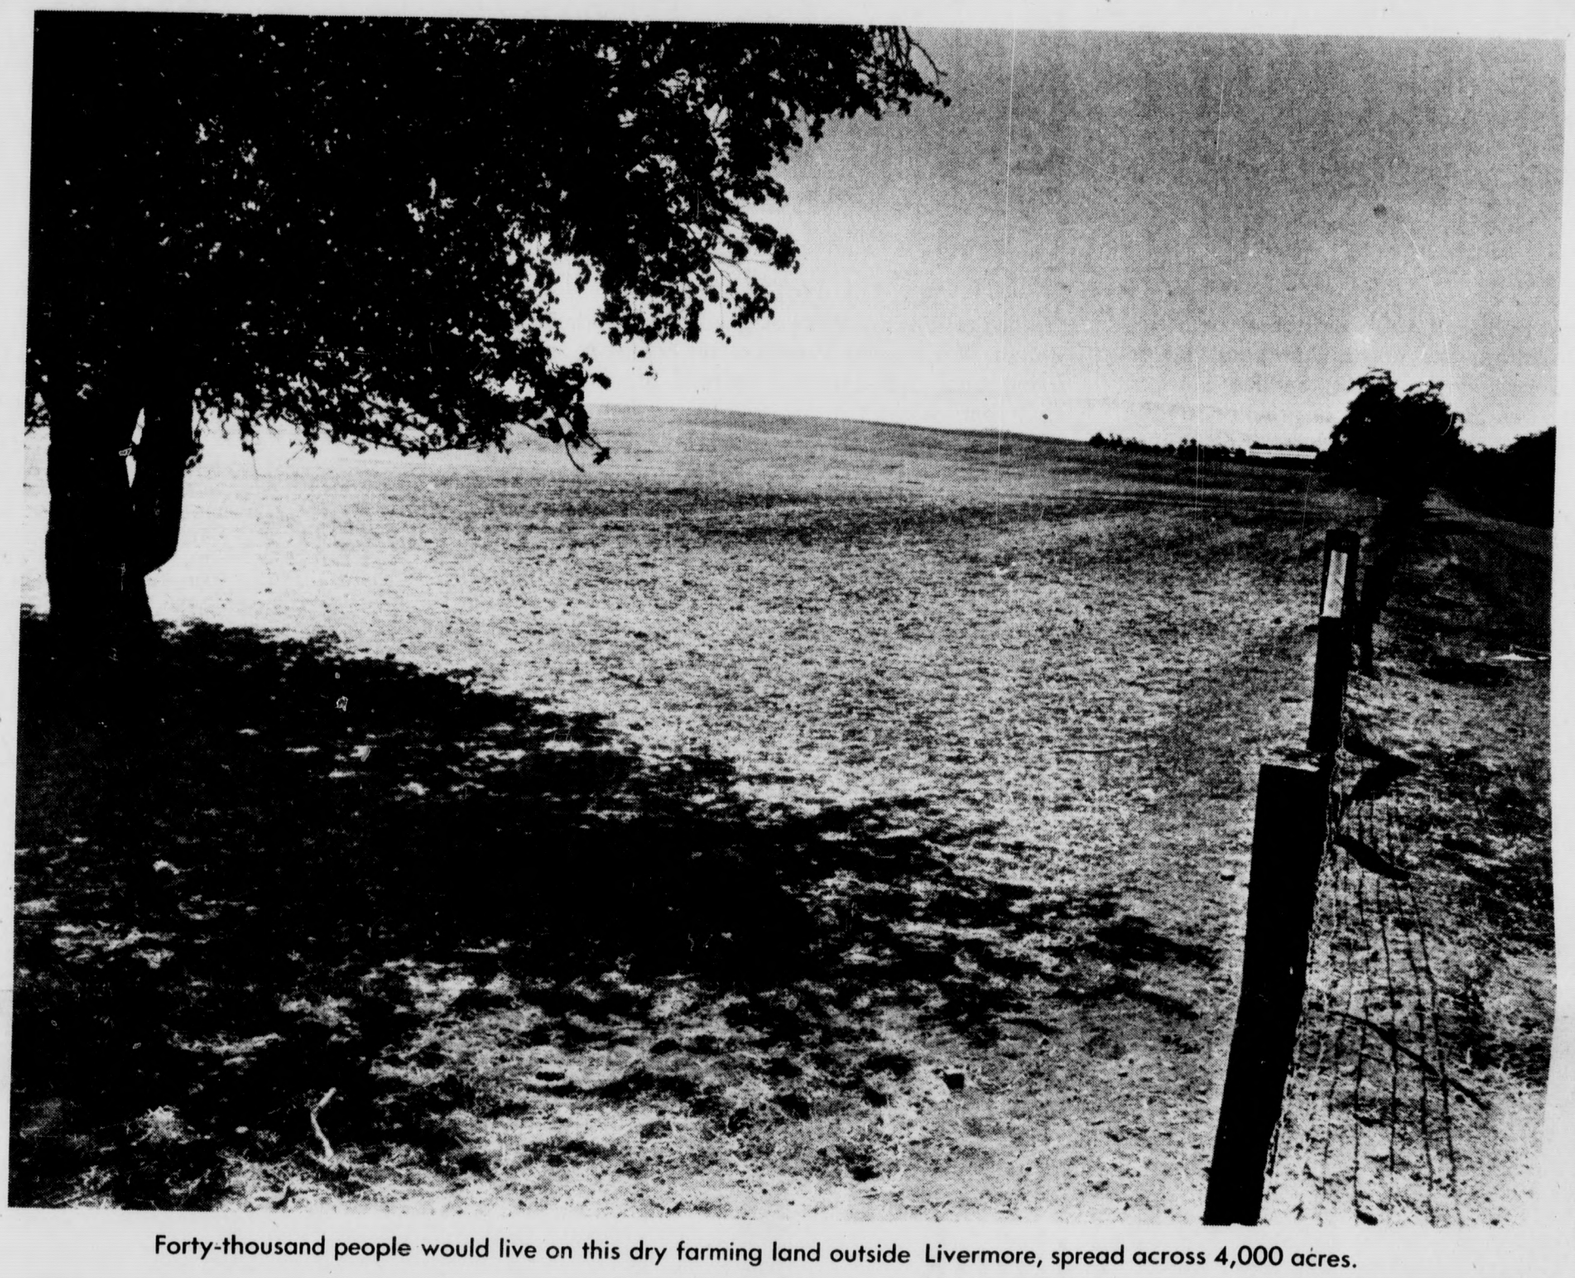
In one release from the Art Blum Public Relations agency in San Francisco, Geldermann said that the public sector of the economy is making progress in hiring minorities in the construction field. The Oakland School district was able to achieve 25 per cent minority hiring, he said.

Putting the statistics in the context of the private construction industry in Alameda County, Geldermann said, "The insistance of the Livermore city officials in dwelling on environmental issues masks the travesty of the Bay Area with respect to increased minority involvement in sharing the economic pie."

Geldermann continued, "As it stands, the governments are really giving with one hand and taking with the other: they award public contracts in respectable proportions to minorities and boondoggle the private sector's ability to keep pace." Geldermann was also quoted as taking a United Nations conference report on the international need for housing and using three sociological terms from it as applying to "Supervisor Raymond and her no-growth backers."

He said that Raymond and her supporters would have "the rapid influx of population (that California is now experiencing) segregate itself because of their gradient spread of a localized dominant wish."

He defined dominance as one geographical area controlling another, gradient as meaning a larger georgraphical area of dominance, and segregation as the "clustering of homogeneous units."



Forty-thousand people would live on this dry farming land outside Livermore, spread across 4,000 acres.

Environment, population top fears

A random telephone survey in the Valley yesterday showed New Town proponents losing badly to both its foes and those without enough information to comment.

Of the 60 calls made, The Times garnered 32 answers. Five people favored Harlan Geldermann's proposed 45,000 population community north of Livermore, 16 were opposed, and 11 felt too uninformed to offer an opinion.

Alameda County Supervisors are scheduled to vote this morning on a massive general plan amendment that could spell life or death for Geldermann's four-year-old proposal.

All five of those polled who favored the plan live in Livermore, the city which has been the project's strongest opponent.

One said soil in the Las Positas Valley where New Town would be built is "more marginal" than prime soil in the Santa Clara Valley. He wants New Town built to save Santa Clara for farming.

Generally, those in favor think it will lower housing prices. One, a renter, said he looks forward to being able to buy a home in New Town.

Another admitted a "personal" reason. Her husband is in construction and she feels New Town "will create a lot of jobs. And houses are too expensive."

One opponent blasted an "Anti!" over the phone before the question was finished. "I'm very strongly against it," she said. "I go to Walnut Creek a lot and I like the drive."

Some said they want more industry before the Valley tries to absorb more people.

See 'What,' pg. 2

OAKLAND — Alameda County supervisors are expected to vote on the proposed Alameda County general plan amendment for the Valley today, and with it, decide the fate of Harlan Geldermann's New Town proposal.

Of course, there's always the chance that the issue, which originally arose in 1973, will be continued again, but it has been aired for so long that both proponents and opponents seem to hope that it finally will be settled today.

The meeting begins at 2 p.m. in the supervisors' chambers, fifth floor, county administration building, 1221 Oak St.

More than 4,000 acres would be developed in the new community of 40,000 persons, according to Geldermann's plan. The physical area embraces dry farming and sheep grazing lands north of Interstate 580 for approximately three or four miles to the north. The western boundary runs through the hills you can see from North Livermore Ave. and the eastern side is located near Dagnino Road and the Livermore Rod and Gun Club near May School.

Geldermann's plans call for a high density community where residents would be encouraged to walk and ride bicycles to help keep smog levels down. Geldermann never has said the development would not add to the Valley's smog, but he feels it will add less than conventional lower density development in Pleasanton, Dublin and Livermore.

Geldermann feels that because the town can rely on county government, and because of high density building, he can offer new homes cheaper than are available anywhere else in the Valley. He didn't get specific about prices, claiming that since only a general plan amendment is at stake now, he won't be doing a specific plan with detailed costs until and unless he gets the general plan approval.

Livermore and Pleasanton are opposed to New Town. Pleasanton wants to fill up the development holes within its city limits and does not want a new competitor for sewer pipeline space.

Livermore feels it will bear the brunt of Gelerdermann's proposal through a possible increase in school taxes and the same competition for the Valley export sewer pipleine.

Even if the Geldermann gets approval today, Livermore is expected to pursue continue its opposition, probably through the courts. The city has two inactive suits filed against the county now over New Town.

Sacto. showdown

Democrats in the state legislature are pushing for a Friday showdown on tax relief and school financing, though the tax bill may be headed for defeat.

Republicans say the Democrat-inspired tax bill doesn't have the votes to pass, though its author, Sen. Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland, claims he is "pretty certain" of the two-thirds majority vote required.

The tax relief bill would cost $4.8 billion over five years, giving homeowners an average $225 rebate, and renters, $110.

The school bill would cost $4 billion over five years.

Crash victims hurt

Two persons remain in Valley Memorial Hospital with injuries suffered in a train-car collission Tuesday in Pleasanton which claimed the life of one person.

Pleasanton police say "inattention" on the driver's part was responsible for the fatal crash.

The other key general plan issues

OAKLAND — Harlan Geldermann's New Town plan has grabbed most of the attention, but there are other considerations involved in the general plan amendment to be considered, and probably voted on, today by Alameda County supervisors.

Sunol residents and Carl Nipper are at odds over whether Nipper can get 95 units built on his 480 acres on the Pleasanton Ridge. The residents have been appearing at the general plan public hearings and arguing for open space zoning that would reduce the development to 16 units or eliminate it almost entirely.

The larger issue to be decided by the supervisors is which of three population densities to adopt for the Valley's general plan over the next 20 years or so.

One option is full development of the Las Positas Valley, Dublin and Livermore and Pleasanton with a total population in the range of from 153,000 to 183,000 in 1995.

A second alternative is development of New Town with no more growth in the existing cities. Total population would be 121,000 to 143,000 by 1995.

The third option would be growth in Pleasanton, Dublin and Livermore at 2 per cent per year and no New Town allowed. Population would be in the 114,000 to 142,000 range in 1995. Pleasanton and Livermore favor this plan.

Brown at Fairgrounds Monday

PLEASANTON — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. will be the kynote speaker at the annual Alameda County Labor Day picnic Monday at the Alameda County Fairgrounds.

Also scheduled to speak at the annual picnic are Rep. Pete Stark (D-Oakland), the Valley's congressional representative, and James Herman, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union. Herman recently succeeded Harry Bridges as president of the union.

A day-long program of games, door prizes, a talent show and other entertainment begins at 10:30 a.m. Monday.

Political speeches begin at 2:30 p.m. Gov. Brown is expected to arrive at about 3 p.m.

Admission price is $2 for adults, free for children 16 and under. Approximately 5,000 people are expected to attend.

The picnic is sponsored by the Alameda County Committee on Political Education (COPE).

Congress may study Dublin man's death

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A New York Congressman called Tuesday for Congressional hearings into a series of seven suspicious deaths at the Oak Knoll Naval Hospital in Oakland.

One involved 78-year old Joaquin Miner, a retired Navy man from Dublin, who died after undergoing surgery at the hospital in June.

Rep. Tom Downey, a Long Island Democrat, said in an interview the problems in Oakland are "symptomatic" of doctor and equipment shortages at military hospitals nationwide.

Downey, a liberal member of the House Armec Services Committee, called the deaths "a can of worms" that "is not confined to Oakland."

The Navy opened an investigation of the hospital in July at the request of Downey and two East Bay Congressmen, Fortney (Pete) Stark, D-Oakland, and Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Berkeley.

The probe is centering on charges made July 20 by Dr. David Crane, a young anesthesiologist, who claimed that top Navy officials were "negligent" for not rectifying a "severe" shortage of equipment and doctors at Oakland.

The Navy is looking into six reported deaths at the hospital dating back to 1974, including a Pittsburg woman who died while investigators visited the hospital last month, and Miner.

The family of Miner filed a $300,000 suit against the hospital charging that his death was the fault of medical personnel there.

A seventh death was added to the growing hospital list this last week.

According to Downey's staff, 20-month old Melva Cooper, died April 23, 1971, when complications developed during an operation to dislodge a peanut caught in her throat. Downey's staff claimed the young girl suffered a "tortuous death" on the operating table after lapsing into a coma.

The Cooper death is not yet among those being investigated by the Navy.

"At first we thought the problem was only in Oakland," Downey said Tuesday.

"But since this thing broke open we've become convinced the problem is more widespread."

Downey said it was likely that an Armed Services subcommittee on which he serves would hold hearings on the Oakland situation after Navy Inspector General Stanley Anderson completes his investigation this fall.

In particular, Downey said the subcommittee would consider legislation designed to attract more physicians into the military and keep them there longer.

DAVID STEVENS DESIGN & CONST.

Downtown Pleasanton will get another 9,500-square-feet of office and commercial space when David Stevens' new building goes up on Angela Street in a vacant lot behind the Exxon Service Station. Ground breaking is slated for the near future, with construction to take three or four months. If the building has a familiar flavor, it's because Stevens and associates designed their building across from the police station. The Angela Street center, however, will have a Spanish California touch with a slanted tile roof. Stevens, whose designs are gradualiy remodeling the city, will take office space at the new location, along with the land's developer, Page Binkley.

Showdown on tax and school bills

By BOB EGELKO
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Democratic leaders Wednesday scheduled a showdown vote Friday on school finance and property tax relief — even though the tax bill appears to be in trouble in the Senate.

"I think we've debated all the issues long enough," Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy said at his weekly news conference. "I don't know if the votes are going to be there or not."

But Republican leaders in both houses, Paul Priolo of Malibu in the Assembly and George Deukmejian of Long Beach in the Senate, predicted the property tax bill would be defeated. Deukmejian said he didn't expect any GOP votes for the bill in the Senate.

On the other hand, Sen. Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland, author of the tax bill, said he was "pretty certain" of getting the needed two-thirds majority of 27 votes.

Two-house conference committees that drafted the tax bill and a companion $4-billion school finance bill are scheduled to meet Thursday to approve them for floor votes.

The tax bill would spend $4.8 billion over five years and give homeowners an average rebate of $225 and renters an average of $110. The school bill would cost $4 billion over the same period and would narrow the gap between school districts of varying property wealth.

Both bills are backed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

Both need two-thirds majorities — 27 votes in the Senate, 54 in the Assembly. Democrats control the Assembly 57-23 and the Senate 26-14, so they need at least one Republican vote in the Senate.

Little trouble is expected for the school measure. But Republicans and a few Democrats have attacked the tax bill on two fronts — that it doesn't do enough for homeowners, and that it spends too much overall.

"This does not give permanent tax relief to those who need it most, the middle-income homeowner," Deukmejian told reporters.

Even though it's hard to vote against property tax rebates, Priolo said, many legislators realize that by voting for the bill, "down the line they're going to have to vote for a massive tax increase."

Priolo said he was basing his claim on new information that the state budget had seriously underestimated state payments to counties. He did not elaborate.

Windows were up, radio and air conditioner switched on

Driver wasn't paying attention, say police

Two men injured in Tuesday's fatal car-train collision in Pleasanton remain in Valley Memorial Hospital's intensive care unit.

Andreas Coati, 68, of 29 Oaks Blvd., San Leandro, is listed in critical condition with head injuries, an arm fracture and cuts. Michael Philis, 75, of Wichita Tex., is listed in serious condition with a possible head injury.

Elfkothea Costi, 68, was pronounced dead on arrival at VMH shortly after 5 p.m.

Pleasanton police blamed the accident on "inattention on the part of the driver," 18-year-old Muchael S. Hurst. The car, with its windows up and radio and air conditioner on failed to stop at the crossing at the crossing on at Bernal Avenue and collided with a southbound Western Pacific freight train, police said.

According to police, two witnesses reported the crossing signals were operating and the train blew its whistle as it approached. The 1971 Ford was turned around and thrown clear of the track, landing on its side. about 10 yards away. One passenger was thrown into the path of an oncoming motorist.

Pleasanton police Det. Jim Swan said no charge had been filed for violation of the vehicle code but a final report from the police and district attorney was pending.

What people think

Most opposition came from those who think it will hurt the environment, particularly the Valley's air quality.

Others said they moved to the Valley because of the limited population, and do not want to see more people. "This Valley is getting pretty full of people," said one.

Of the 11 "no opinions," most said they either had just moved to the Valley and had not caught up on the issue, or worked across the hills and did not have time to study it.

Two facing trial flee Santa Rita

PLEASANTON — Two inmates awaiting trial escaped from the medium security compound at Santa Rita Jail Tuesday night, sheriff's deputies reported.

The two men cut a security screen and fled the county jail sometime between 6:30 p.m. and 8:45 p.m. Tuesday, a spokesperson said.

Missing are Rene Lamar Kelley, 23, of El Cerrito, and John Sammie Gibson, 22, of Oakland.

Kelley was awaiting trial on charges of forgery, theft, possession of stolen property, and auto theft. Gibson was to be tried on charges of burglary, theft, possession of stolen property, and assault.

LLL wage package talks slated today

LIVERMORE — Union and management representatives will meet at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory today at 8:30 a.m. to try and work out a wage package acceptable to both sides following a two-day "sickout" this week at the lab by some members of Local 1276 of the International Laborers Union.

A lab spokesman said management was offering a 7 per cent general increase plus a 2½ per cent merit increase. A union spokeman said members are seeking a 9 per cent across-the-board pay hike.

Also to be discussed at today's meeting will be job descriptions for security officers, performance evaluation methods, job titles for material handlers, union representation rights and use of LLL bulletin boards by employe organizations.

Does BART run better with less?

Lesher News Bureau

OAKLAND — Bay Area Rapid Transit directors seemed to say Wednesday that maybe there are too many employes working for BART since it now is working so well with so few.

Arthur Shartsis, Oakland director, said there were issues to be learned about the efficiency of the district.

"There are things we can look into about the productivity of the workers. What is happening isn't being lost on the board," he said.

Eugene Garfinkle, San Francisco director, said, "The public should know what a difficult job it has been for a skeleton crew to operate the trains."

John Kirkwood, San Francisco director, pointed out, "The shops have done a magnificent job. This is the only transit system that can operate when 95 per cent of the workers are off."

BART directors had high praise for the administrative staff and employes who remained on the job.

President of the board, Barc Simpson, Walnut Creek, said "The staff here and all the people have done a magnificent job in serving the public."

The evidence Wednesday morning was that BART directors would hold fast to the position that police officers must cross picket lines during strikes.

After the public meeting, Nello Biano, Richmond director, said "I have no problem with that position. Public property has to be protected especially during a strike."

This morning, BART trains got off to a late start after vandals poured epoxy glue into the locks of gates and doors at the Concord yard.

Management workers there had to cut their way into the yard said spokeswoman Diane Levine.

She said 92,100 people rode the trains Tuesday — 70 per cent of the normal 144,000 riders.

At this point, BART is coming closer to breaking even than it ever has since it bagan operating, General Manager Frank Herringer noted.

Herringer said during the police strike, BART is recovering between 50 and 60 per cent of its revenues from the farebox. Usually, BART recovers 35 per cent of its costs from fares.

Spilled milk

A tractor-trailer rig spilled its cargo of milk yesterday while negotiating a turn on the I-680 on-ramp at the I-580 interchange. Fortunately the driver, Joseph Russo of Petaluma, was able to walk away from the wreck after crawling out from the shattered windshield. Officer David Moore of the California Highway Patrol said the rig just "came into the turn too fast for its load." The accident happened at 6:55 a.m.

Legislators vote for their raises

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A bill granting California legislators a 10 per cent pay raise over two years easily cleared the state Senate Wednesday and was sent to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

The measure, AB 1396 by Assemblyman Louis Papan, Daly City, would boost lawmakers' salaries from $23,232 to $25,555 starting Dec. 4, 1978.

Under the state Constitution, legislators can vote themselves pay raises of five per cent a year. Papan's bill covers 1977 and 1978.

Wednesday's vote was 27-5, the bare two-thirds majority needed for passage in the 40-seat upper house. But there was no debate against the bill.

Granting themselves pay raises has always been a sensitive issue for legislators, and the measure's Senate sponsor, President pro tem James Mills, D-San Diego, criticized the press for the way it handles pay raise stories.

"This bill would add an expense of $449,000 a year, $279,000 for salaries, $170,000 for retirement," he said. "If we were to pass any other bill that had a cost of less than $450,000 it would not make the front page.

"This will make page one, but I hope that will not discourage anyone."

Mills said he would tell his constituents that he voted for the bill and was "sorry it was not more."

He said legislative salaries since 1966 had jumped 45 per cent compared to a 75 per cent increase in the cost of living, and that a number of legislative employes are paid more than their bosses.

Legislators, however, also get $35 a day in expense money while the legislature is in session, state-leased cars and state gasoline credit cards.

ANOTHER DUCK

The Lame Duck became a symbol of one of America's oldest political animals — the defeated office-holder serving out the remainder of his term. In the 18th century, however, the lame duck symbolized a speculator who got caught short playing the stock market.

Muscular dystrophy coordinators

How couple got involved in the fight

David and Jolene Abrahams, the area coordinators for the Muscular Dystrophy Association, find themselves taking part in a constant campaign which culminates each year when they help run the annual Telethon benefit locally. Neither seems to mind the work. "Who knows? Maybe with some of this money" the cure for MD will be found, David says.

Jolene and David Abrahams are looking for $60,000.

Not for themselves. But for their "pet project," the Muscular Dystrophy Telethon, to be held again this year over the Labor Day weekend.

The couple, who are area coordinators for the MD drive, are hoping that valley residents will be emptying their pockets, piggybanks and wallets to help raise a record $60,000 for the area telethon.

The Livermore couple, who have been devoting countless hours toward the fight against MD for six years now, have a special reason for their dedication to the cause.

Jolene grew up with the reality of muscular dystrophy. Her brother died when he was 18, a victim of MD.

"It's a deterioration of the muscles," explains Jolene, "that hits mostly children, but also can affect adults in various ages — 20's, 30's, '40's."

"My brother was affected with Duchenne, the most common form of MD," Jolene says. "He lived until he was 18, but that is rare. The normal life span is usually about 13."

Jolene described the way MD strikes its young victims: "At around nine or ten, they go to crutches or a wheelchair. The muscles become useless, and a victim will start retaining weight. Then, they become weak, thin, and bed-ridden."

After years of helping to care for a brother with MD, Jolene says "there are some things I still have not lost."

"I have a keen sense of hearing — I'd be awake whenever my brother would cough. Now, if my son breathes the wrong way, I'm awake."

There are about six MD patients in the Valley, Jolene says, and all of them get some financial help for what could be overwhelming medical costs from the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

"The money people donate helps provide wheelchairs, clinics, full-time doctors, back-braces — all kinds of care," David Abrahams says.

- And people like to donate to MD, he adds, because they know only about four per cent of the money goes back into administratiee costs and 14 per cent for fund-raising. "There's no other charity which is run at such low cost."

The Abrahams, who will be supervising the local telethn efforts run at Dublin's Shannon Community Center, say that donors who do call in usually end up giving a bit more to MD.

"People call up and say, 'I have healthy kids, I have to help the others.' "

There are some local people, David says, who know first-hand about the tragedy of MD. "One boy and his friend here were always raising money for MD," David reports. Then, "one of the kids found out he has MD, and now the other one raises money to help him out."

"It's often a very hard thing for the parents to accept," Jolene says. "It's tough. They know there isn't a cure."

Some parents, David adds, try to hide it from their MD-stricken children. "Children are curious, and they know when something is wrong. Oftentimes, they'll confront a parent and say, 'What's happening to me?' "

The Abrahams, who have done this kind of volunteer work for years now, say that "we have plenty of time to give" to MD. "We have a healthy child, thank God."

But for those who don't, it's the Abrahams, and others like them, who try to help out. Jerry Lewis, the entertainer who spends the majority of his time working for MD, is another. "No one knows why he does it," Jolene says. "Every year he says, 'Maybe this will be the year.' He never tells."

"Who knows?" adds David. "Maybe, with some of this money, some scientist somewhere will say 'Eureka! We think we know how to cure it.' There may be a way to prevent it, just as there is for polio."

So maybe this will be the year. The Abrahams aren't waiting to find out. They'll be manning those phones (829-2020) on Sept. 4 at Shannon Community Center, staying up all night, inviting residents to drop by — and drop in a few bucks while they're at it, for the kids who have MD.

Facing the reality of dystrophy at home

Of all the days in her life, there is one that will always lie frozen in the mind of Edwina Alves.

It was the day a Livermore doctor looked at her son Joey, then four and a half, and said, "I think he has a muscle disease."

From then on, Edwina Alves and her family had to face what many parents think "can't happen to us" — they learned about muscular dystrpophy for the first time.

Mrs. Alves, a smiling, energetic woman who came from Portugal just 18 years ago, speaks with a soft accent and an occasional tear when she relates the story of her son Joey, who is now 15.

Muscular dystrophy, the muscle disease which often strikes young children, hits its victims in the cruelest way. There are a variety of different forms of MD, but the Aran-Duchenne disorder is most common among children. It is this kind which Joey has been affected with.

Muscles become weak and wasted, finally atrophied and useless. The cause is unknown, the disease is incurable, and victims are expected to live only until their 20's.

"If they told me today," says Mrs. Alves, "that there is a cure for MD, that it is very expensive — then I would sell everything I have to help Joey."

"I'm strong. My husband and I work hard," she says, shaking her head, "but we would do anything."

The lives of the Livermore family changed drastically when, many years ago, Joey showed signs of not walking well. "He would have to hold himself up against a wall, just to climb a step," Mrs. Alves remembers. Doctors examined the child, and finally, after a long examination, one pediatrician laid out the truth. "I will never forget those words," Mrs. Alves recalls. He told of the muscle disease he suspected, and recommended more tests. After trips to the Children's Hospital in Oakland, and a journey to a specialist in Portugal, Mrs. Alves got the facts.

"I wanted to know every possibility, what could happen to him," she said. "I asked the doctor to explain, and the words I didn't understand, I asked her to explain again," she says. "I understood that he had up to 20 years of normal life."

The Alves family of Livermore are all tough volunteers in the fight against muscular dystrophy — because 15-year-old Joey is a victim. "I believe in doing everything I can to help," relates Mrs. Alves. "Friends and family, they never know what MD is, until there's somebody close who has it." Shown from left are Edwina Alves, daughter Jackie, 12, husband Joe, and Joey, 15.

> "If they told me today that there is a cure for MD, I would sell everything I have to help Joey."

Joey, a bright-eyed, dark-haired youngster, has now been in a wheelchair for three and a half years, Mrs. Alves says. One operation, she added, helped him to stay out of the chair for a while. But now, surgery is rejected by doctors as a means of controlling the tragic effects of MD. It is difficult on the patient, and does little to improve their mobility. Parents, instead, must resort to special footwear, which can cost up to $100 a pair, and, of course, the wheelchair.

Mrs. Alves says that, as difficult as it was, "I did not hide anything from Joey" and his younger sister Jackie about the disease. "But you can't talk about a problem like this and not break sometimes."

Though the problem is a tough one, the Alves family does not let the disease cast any kind of cloud over their home life.

"Joey really wants to see 'Star Wars' this week, so we are going to try and take him," Mrs. Alves smiles. Upon hearing this, Jackie runs into the TV room and yells, "Hey, Joey, we're going to the movies!" And, of course, there is the unswerving dedication to raising money for the muscular dystrophy cause. That's something in which everyone — from Mrs. Alves to her husband, Joe, a Livermore cabinet-maker, and daughter Jackie, 12 — gets together on.

"Edwina works on the telethon and goes like hell," reports David Abrahams, a valley coordinator in the fight against MD.

"She does the work of three people in half the time," adds Jolene Abrahams, David's wife and another local MD coordinator. "If I were the parent of an MD child, I'd be the same way."

"When you're trying to look for a cure," David says, "you think if you work faster, it will come faster."

Mrs. Alves gets very serious when she talks about the hours of work her family puts in on the local telethon.g"Family and friends, they never know about MD until there's somebody close who has it. Anybody can give $5. Even $1 is better than nothing to raise money for the telethon."

She smiles. "As long as I live — if they don't let me help, I'll be very discouraged. I have the disease here, in my family. I believe in doing everything I can to help Jerry." Jerry, of course, is Jerry Lewis, the entertainer who is the thrust of the yearly fund-raising drive.

"I stay up the whole time he's on the air," says Mrs. Alves, "How can I sleep?"

A tear begins to roll down her cheek. "I would give anything to meet that guy in person, to thank him for what he's doing for the kids." She smiles a bit through the teare. "Next to God, he's the best."

MD pledge via phone lines

Valley residents who want to pledge money for muscular dystrophy can do it with a phone call during the annual Labor Day Telethon this year.

The local s6gments of the 22-hour show will be broadcast on KTVU, Channel 2, beginning at 6 p.m., Sept. 4. Valley viewers can call the local telethon number, 829-2020, to make pledges on a toll-free call.

The Valley Telethon will be run from the Shannon Community Center in Dublin. Residents are invited to drop by the Center and see how the Telethon works, according to Jolene Abrahams, area coordinator for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Wes Capman's Band, "O'Ryan," from the World of Music in Pleasanton, will also be present to entertain visitors and volunteers at the Shannon Center Sept. 5 from noon to 2 p.m.

On the national level, entertainer Jerry Lewis will be joined by Frank Sinatra, Tony Bennett, Barry Manilow, Charo and Ed McMahon and more on the TV spectacular, to be shown on Channel 2, which last year raised almost $22 million nationwide.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I have two older brothers with criminal records. One is now going straight but the other is back in jail. I'm worried because I have a 15 - year - old son and it would break my heart if he were ever in trouble with the law. He's bright, talented and I want him to get ahead. I don't like the girl he's picked up with and I'd like to break it off, if I knew how. He tells me not to worry, that she's all right. Is there anything we can do to make sure my boy won't ever follow in his uncles' footsteps? — T.O.

DEAR T.O.: Reassure him when he does something right and give him plenty of support so he'll feel he has a good chance to succeed without resorting to criminal activities. Stress the importance of education. Tell him you believe he's talented and intelligent. This will help him to know that he can have a bright future.

If you find he's getting into any trouble with the law, get professional help immediately. Ask a teacher or a neighborhood clinic for advice. Don't wait until the problems become serious.

As far as the present girlfriend is concerned, I strongly suggest you don't interfere. Meddling from over anxious parents can easily turn a passing adolescent attraction into a flourishing, misguided romance. Studies have shown that parental interference tends to increase, rather than decrease youngsters' passions.

It's far better to let him know that you trust and love him, even when your tastes differ, as they often will.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My wife keeps bugging me to get a different and "better" job. I really enjoy the job I have even though it doesn't pay as much as I could get doing something else. I'm not dumb or lazy. I know I could earn more someplace else but I don't want the hassles and why should I go into a job with a lot of pressure? My wife and I grew up in families that know what it's like to be poor but I think it's affected her more than me. It doesn't bother me.

DEAR O.R.: It seems to be a constant surprise to people to realize that money rarely creates happiness. Studies have revealed that the happiest people are neither rich nor poor. The rich would probably have a much better chance for happiness if they had less and the poor would be happier if they had more.

Surveys of individuals around the U.S. have revealed that of the people who think money, and a lot of it, is essential to happiness generally don't rate themselves as happy. People who regard themselves as the happiest are those who feel that love and having a congenial family is far more essential to happiness than financial independence.

People who have hobbies and other interests are also happier. Since you like your present job, I suggest you don't leave it.

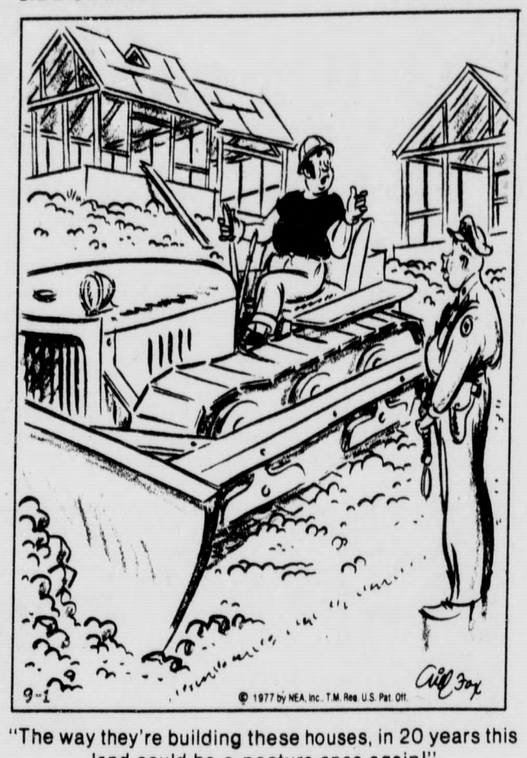
"Why does that man keep talkin' to us, Daddy? Does he KNOW us?"

SIDE GLANCES by Gill Fox



"The way they're building these houses, in 20 years this land could be a pasture once again!"

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — What are potent lecithin capsules good for? Will they help to lose weight? What are B-One-Hundred a Balanced B-Complex Formula for? I need to lose weight but would like to know about these medicines.

DEAR READER — I'm tempted to reply they are "good for nothing." Vitamins do not help you lose weight. The only value in any vitamin preparations such as these while trying to lose weight would be for the individual on an unhealthy fad diet that doesn't provide all the needed vitamins you should get from a well balanced diet.

Lecithin is not really a vitamin. It is a combination of fat and choline. The choline is useful but you should get that from meat which should be part of your well-balanced diet or your body can manufacture it from the methionine found in your normal diet.

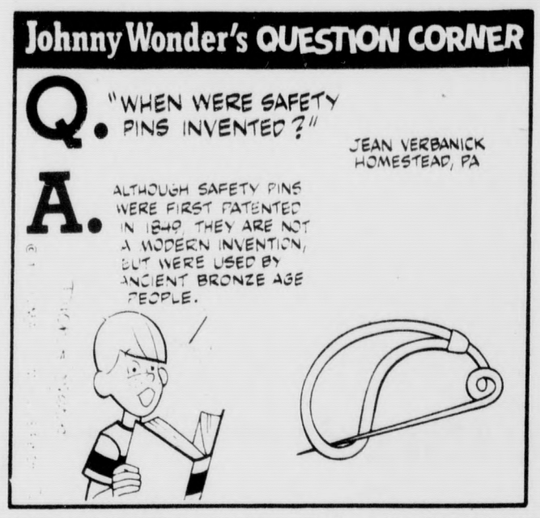
Many people seem to have the mistaken idea that you can take something and lose weight rather than going through the process of using more calories than you consume. About the only things you can take to lose weight are laxatives and water pills to dehydrate you. Neither help to lose fat unless you make yourself so sick from a chemical imbalance of your body that you need to work your metabolic system overtime to get back your health. Emptying out the digestive system or dehydrating your body will show loss of weight on the scales but it won't be loss of fat. That is why it comes right back when you return to normal living.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband and I are in our mid 50s. We have an exercise bike that we ride at least five miles a day at a speed of 18 to 21 miles an hour. Is this form of exercise beneficial to us? Is it worth continuing? We are both in excellent health and have never experienced any kind of heart ailments or circulation problems.

DEAR READER — As long as you are in good health and have achieved the level of fitness to do this regularly it should not harm you and may help a great deal. The additional requirement, though, is that you be consistent. Don't stop for weeks and then resume the same level of exercising. Stay with it and if you have to stop for any reason, start at a lower level and gradually retrain to the daily level you are able to maintain.

Exercise bicycles and those for outdoor cycling both provide a means of exercising without over-stressing the ankle and knee joints. The bicycle supports your weight and helps protect your joints while exercising.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER



Q. "WHEN WERE SAFETY PINS INVENTED?"
JEAN VERBANICK
HOMESTEAD, PA
A. ALTHOUGH SAFETY PINS WERE FIRST PATENTED IN 1849 THEY ARE NOT A MODERN INVENTION, BUT WERE USED BY ANCIENT BRONZE AGE PEOPLE.

The safety pin was patented in 1849 by Walter Hunt, of New York. But he probably didn't know that it had been in use at least 3,000 years before by the ancient Etruscans and the people of early Greece!

Pins have been used to fasten man's clothing since the earliest of times. The first pins were thorns and sharpened pieces of wood and animal bone.

Later on, people learned to make finer pins from bronze, silver and gold.

Today our common pins are made from reels of brass or steel wire, brightly coated with tin.

To make safety pins, the stiff wire is fed into a pin-making machine, which cuts it into proper lengths, and grinds a point on one end of each piece. Then it twists a loop in the pin's middle to make it spring apart when opened, and pinches a cap tightly on the pin's head.

The pointed end slips into the protecting cap when the safety pin is closed, to prevent injury.

The student knew he had overbid, but was delighted with dummy. He won the first trick with his ace of spades over East's 10 and promptly played his king and queen of clubs. He had planned to claim if both opponents followed, but East showed out and the student had a problem. Where was the 13th trick to come from?

Then the student remembered that the Professor had told him that any time he could count 12 top tricks the 13th might come on a squeeze. The Professor would have spread his hand at this point and claimed. Only East could stop spades; only West could stop clubs. No one would be able to hang on to heart protection.

The student didn't know this, but he worked the sqeeze anyway. He cashed his king-queen-jack of diamonds, entered dummy with the king of spades and led the ace-jack of clubs while discarding two hearts.

Then came the pressure. He led the ace of diamonds. East had to chuck a heart to retain a high spade. The student now threw his nine of spades. it had done its work. Now West had to unguard the queen of hearts to keep the 10 of clubs and the student's hearts were good for the last three tricks.

County keeps promise: Tax bills up 7.5%

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — In the last swing of its see-saw life of reductions and additions over the past eight weeks, Contra Costa's budget for, 1977-78 was formally approved Tuesday at $250 million, a $2 million cut from the original proposal.

"The finance committee would like to start work on the 1978-79 budget as soon as it's practical," said Supervisor Robert Schroder, Walnut Creek, after the board unanimously passed this year's budget.

With some last-minute changes in budget appropriations, the Contra Costa County tax rate was officially set at $2.51 per $100 assessed valuation, a decrease of 22 cents over last year's tax rate of $2.73.

The board also appropriated $200,000 to property tax revenues from the reserve fund so property tax bills would only rise 7.5 per cent, as supervisors had promised at the outset.

Despite supervisors' attempts to hold property taxes down, however, the county's final vudget shows an approximate bulge of more than $30 million from last year.

"Tax revenues may have risen only 7.5 per cent," said budget critic Geno Banducci after Tuesday's session, "but the entire budget has risen nearly 16 per cent. The supervisors aren't the heroes they make themselves out to be."

Supervisors had indicated two weeks ago that County Administrator Arthur Will's original budget request for $252 million might be cut as much as $4 million

But at the last minute, nearly $1.8 million was rebudgeted for the county Aid to Cities program and other road projects, bringing the final cut to approximately $2 million.

Other last-minute expenditures, to be paid with the county's general reserve fund, include $40,000 for a management audit program and around $55,000 for a privatley run alcoholic rehabilitation program that contracts with the county.

Before the budget was adopted, supervisors listened to Henry Clark, general manager of the Contra Costa County Employes Association, warn against a $4 million budget cut.

"It is my opinion that your proposed cut in the budget of close to $4 million is a severe mistake in judgement on the board's part," he said.

The final approved budget leaves the county with a $4.7 million reserve fund.

Kimberly Jane Fisher, 18, of San Ramon, was crowned Miss Walnut Creek 1977 Saturday night following a pageant at Walnut Creek Civic Arts Theater. The 18-year-old graduate of San Ramon Valley High School is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Fisher. Other finalists were Renee Rolle, 18, of Walnut Creek, first runner-up, and Liane Woodward, 17, also of Walnut Creek, second runner-up.

BART tax rate down in Contra Costa

Lesher News Bureau

OAKLAND — The tax rate went down Wednesday for Contra Costa County taxpayers, but the dollars were up again as the Bay Area Rapid Transit directors approved the 1977-78 tax levy.

The BART board approved a 42.8 cent tax rate per $100 of assessed valuation for Contra Costa, down 5 cents from the previous year. At the same time the Alameda County rate went up .9 cents from 42.2 cents last year to 43.1 cents this fiscal year. San Francisco taxpayers had a decrease from 47.1 cents to 43.6 cents.

The tax rates are different in each of the three counties to compensate for variations in the ratios of the assessed values used in each county.

The tax rate will raise $47.9 million in all three counties to pay for the debt service on outstanding general obligation bonds and help defray the operating budget.

According to BART officials 37.8 cents of the 42.8 cents tax rate pays off the bonds and 5 cents goes to the general fund.

The 5 cents applied throughout the three counties raised $5.8 million last year and will raise $5.93 million this fiscal year.

The operating budget previously approved this year was $84.4 million compared to $66.5 million last year.

A hectic return to duty

Armstrong School back to full power for first time since arson fire

SAN RAMON — Don Mar peered out from behind a row of filing cabinets and assorted visual aids and convinced his questioner that the San Ramon district school would be in full operation by next Tuesday.

Then he reached out to silence a persistent phone, nodded silent assent to a maintenance man's question and swiveled about in his chair to greet another parent.

Just another minute in a recent typical day for the second-year Neil Armstrong School principal.

Mar is much like the proverbial little Dutch boy with his finger in the dike ... the kids are coming, 600-plus of them, ready or not.

While the interior of the school is nearly complete, Mar estimates that 80 per cent of the plant will be operational. "Some of the furniture has not arrived and the grills for the air vents are not here yet," he noted.

But the supplies, teachers, even the cafeteria operation, will be there. The staff will include 19 classroom teachers, 18 classroom aides, and 10 support staff (reading specialist, speech, guidance, librarian, health aide, etc.) members.

The Calais Drive school will house just kindergarten through fifth grade this year as sixth graders will attend nearby Pine Valley Intermediate School.

For most of the 608 enrolled as of Wednesday, it'll be a grand return to Armstrong.

The majority of Armstrong students spent from November-on last year at Walt Disney School after a late October fire all but destroyed the neat and spacious elementary school.

But from those trying times evolved a daily lesson in cooperation and sharing for hundreds of elementary-age youngsters.

Forced to double sessions at Walt Disney, the youngsters, staff and parents made the best of it and came through the year with an understanding of how to deal with adversity.

It was a trying year for Mar, who had been used to a metropolitan and central office setting. But he and his Disney counterpart, Bonnie Hutchins, guided their respective staffs and worked with parents to see that daily classes ran as smoothly as possible.

Now comes the first week back!

Mar will have two new teachers — "new" in the context they'll team teach this year after teaching elsewhere previously. They are Shelley Shuster and Tanni Giguiere.

Class lists were posted Wednesday.

Now all Mar has to do is get those files, chairs, cabinets, teaching materials and teachers in place.

Because he'll have 600-plus kids, bright-eyed and bushy-tailed, knocking on the door Tuesday morning.

— by Al Fischer

Armstrong principal Donald Mar looks out over files, supplies, and world globe still to be distributed to class areas at San Ramon school now almost fully rebuilt.

PTA holds luncheon at Dublin

DUBLIN — The Dublin School PTA will host a pot-luck luncheon for the staff Tuesday, Sept. 6, at 12:30 p.m. in the school multi-purpose room.

All parents of Dublin School students are invited to attend. Child care will be available.

For further information, call Eileen Barr at 828-8978.

On the following day, which is the first day of school in the Murray district, donuts and coffee will be available in the multi-purpose room. The Dublin PTA is also hosting the day-long coffee bar.

Early adult signups

The Amador Valley Adult Education program is having pre-registration for those who wish to register early to assure getting the class of their choice.

Pre-registration will be held at the new Adult Education office, 1155 Santa Rita Rd., Pleasanton, located on the Amador Valley High School campus, adjacent to the parking lot.

Registration hours will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Thursdays and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Fridays.

A $4 registration fee will be charged per person, per quarter, except those students who attend high school during the day, senior citizens, and those enrolling in citizenship and English for the foreign born. Some classes will charge additional lab or book fees.

For further information, call the Adult Education office at 462-0022.

Whale exhibit at library

LIVERMORE — An exhibit of paintings, sculpture and photos of whales, porpoises and other sea mammals, including a 40-foot life-sized replica of a California Grey Whale, is planned at the Livermore library this month.

The exhibit is sponsored by the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District and General Whale of Oakland which has toured with the exhibit nationwide and in Japan.

The event will be open to the public from Sept. 9 through Oct. 24 during normal library hours. For further information on group tours and special family programs contact the LARPD, 447-7300.

Drill teams will meet at Chabot

Sixteen drum and drill units from throughout north state will compete in a California Drum and Drill field contest Friday night at the Chabot College athletic field in Hayward.

The event, which serves as a preliminary to the California Open Drum and Drill Championships Oct. 1 in Santa Clara, is being co-sponsored by the Blue Angels of San Lorenzo and Los Companeros of Union City.

Competition begins at 7 p.m. and admission to the event is $2.

Among the entrants are units from San Jose, the Concord Blue Devils "B" assemblage, and the Red Knights of San Leandro.

Judging of junior and senior drum and bell corps, drill teams, color guards, and majorette corps will be done by members of the Pacific Coast Judging Association.

Pine Valley bike area

Anthony Freitas, facilities coordinator for the San Ramon Valley Unified School District, calls attention to the area at Pine Valley Intermediate School that will house student bicycle racks. The school will house approximately 850 sixth and seventh graders when school opens Tuesday. However, locker and shower rooms, student commons, and parts of the media center will not be open as work will continue on these areas through September. Irrigation lines for the athletic fields are in and complete, but the fields have not been planted due to the water shortage.

Look what's growing in your own backyard: Willows

If you haven't been out to WILLOWS lately, you're in for a very pleasant surprise. While WILLOWS is still growing, unique specialty stores, uncommon shops, and unusual places to eat are blossoming forth like the summer flowers we've planted everywhere.

But WILLOWS is more than the newest place in Concord to shop. You'll find lots to do, as well as lots of lovely ways to do nothing at all. You can have a picnic lunch by our fountain. Invite your friends to "Meet me at the Gazebo" — there's usually free entertainment — then browse the new stores off the shaded mall. Stay over for dinner at a fine restaurant and take in the evening's performance at the Willows Theater. Or just admire the architecture and design . . . the scenery and greenery.

Come watch WILLOWS growing in your own backyard. You'll like what we're doing here.

Willows is open Monday through Friday from 10 AM to 9 PM. On Saturdays, from 10 AM to 6 PM. On Sundays, 12 noon to 5 PM. Convenient parking for 1200 cars.

New assistant principal Sally Rayhill

New school administrator will direct discipline

PLEASANTON— When Sally Rayhill set school administration as her professional education goal, she doubtlessly realized there'd be some difficult days ahead— but she didn't dream they would come in the form of a teacher strike on the eve of her first assignment as a principal.

The newly - appointed assistant principal at Harvest Park School, Ms. Rayhill had just been named interim principal at Birchwood in the Berryessa (San Jose) School District when district teachers, ired over contract negotiations, walked out the day before school opened.

Thus began the indoctrination - under - fire of school administrator Sally Rayhill.

But from those pressure - filled, go-go-go days of less than two years past has come a young woman administrator who isn't about to shy away from even the toughest of assignments.

Her new position at Harvest Park, a sixth through eighth grade school, may be one of those.

Ms. Rayhill, a sunny and attractive young woman, will be responsible for student discipline at the school and will also evaluate and observe some members of the teaching staff. Additional duties involve assisting principal Dale Hudson in general administration.

Ms. Rayhill is one of five women appointed to administrative positions in the Pleasanton Joint School District, as first reported in The Times a month ago.

Also selected were Glenys Hill, teaching vice-principal at Pleasanton School, an intermediate grade school like Harvest Park; Jan Kuhns, teaching vice principal at Alisal School; Marilyn McCurdy, teaching vice principal at Fairlands School, and Marilyn Auser, interim teaching vice principal at Walnut Grove.

McCurdy and Kuhns had assignments in the Pleasanton district last year. Mrs. Auser was a reading specialist last year. She will assist interim principal Tom Ingham.

Born and raised in San Francisco, Ms. Rayhill graduated from San Jose State University with a B.A. in social science. She also went on to gain her teaching credential at State and returned to obtain her administration credential and Masters.

From the ivy-covered walls of the Mission City teacher prep center, Sally moved to Modesto to obtain her first teaching position — as a fifth grade instructor.

After one year, she returned to San Jose where she taught fifth grade at Birchwood in the Berryessa district. The next couple of years she taught fourth and fifth grades before turning her thoughts to obtaining an administrative credential.

As a preliminary step toward her goal, she requested and received an assignment as summer school principal at Birchwood during 1975.

During that time the regular year principal was named director of curriculum for the district. Sally was asked to take over the duties of interim principal.

On the eve of the first day of school district teachers went on strike. She learned of the situation at 11 p.m. and spent the wee hours locating substitute teachers. The strike lasted 10 teaching days.

She served three months as interim principal and then moved into the district's Intersession program. During the 1975-76 school year Sally held several administrative positions, including coordinating the program, curriculum planning, serving as an interim principal at Ruskin School in the Berryessa district, and resource instructor.

Though an administrator for a relatively short time, she has had a wide variety of assignments.

Ms. Rayhill felt the impetus to look elsewhere last May when two of the seven schools in the Intersession program (a year-round schools plan) decided to readopt the tradtional school year calendar.

When the Pleasanton position opened up, she applied and received the appointment over a host of other applicants.

She says she hopes to handle discipline in a fair and firm manner, keeping in close contact with parents.

Her duties will involve a recently revised referral form, which a teacher fills out when a youngster has misbehaved.

Asked how she could develop a rapport with older, more experienced teachers who she will be evaluating and observing, Sally commented adroitly that she would try to be very supportive and demonstrate by action.

She has already met with Home and School Club members— "they were very supportive of me"— and was impressed by the maturity shown by student council members.

Pleasanton history

Realtor sees changes

No one has had a better opportunity to watch the Valley change than a longtime realtor like Pleasanton's John Amaral.

"Things have changed a lot and that's why I'm about ready to retire," he said with a laugh.

Amaral was the only realtor in town when he opened his office in 1937. A Rhode Island native and Pleasanton resident since 1924, he first ran an automotive parts business and sold insurance part time before moving into his first office on Main Street. It burned down in 1945 and Amaral moved his one-man operation to its present site, 327 St. Mary's St.

"I built it small because I didn't expect the town to grow so fast and it was convenient to live next door," he said.

"We always talked about growth then, there were predictions Pleasanton might reach 25,000. Things were different," he recalled.

Then Amaral had time to serve as chief of Pleasanton's volunteer fire department rom 1940 to 1960. He was a charter member of the Lions Club and the Pleasanton chamber of commerce.

Now Pleasanton has over 34,000 residents, an official fire department and, it is safe to say, many more realtors than 40 years ago. Amaral points out his business changed as the town grew.

"New people that come here are very aggressive, eager beavers and with the big demand for houses and the price so high you don't have to sell many to make a living," he said.

"Some oldtimers are resentful of all this growth and feel like strangers in their own town but I try not to isolate myself," he added.

John and his wife Ruth raised two sons in Pleasanton; Lee, an attorney and Jimmy, an artist living in South America and they will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary in November.

This is part of a continuing series of profiles of Valley business people who have provided the same service for at least two decades.

Reasons for pre-season fb

On Sports

Al LoCasale explains it, fans cope with it and the press continues to lambast it.

Pre-season football is always a huge target this time of year. And it never misses to be hit.

While the fan often walks away feeling short-changed and the writer looks for an "angle" football management is busy dropping dollars into its pocket.

Al LaCasale

Pre-season is also the time for playing the waiver game of chopping rosters from the immense to the minute in just over a period of six weeks.

"There are a number of good reasons to hold pre-season games," insists LoCasale, the Oakland Raiders' Executive Assistant. "But the primary objective during the game is not to look at the player.

We look at players all week during practice. We have them on the field twice a day, two hours of practice. People must understand that.

"Many of those hours are on film," he stressed. "That's where you make your decisions and do your teaching. During the games you want to provide those players, not just the rookies, with meaningful game experience.

"We have in training camp all the situations that will come up in a ball game. But that's an imitation of a game situation. There is no greater lesson than doing all the necessary things live."

The Raiders' pre-season philosophy differs from other clubs, nursing the starter slowely for the long haul ahead. It's also a time for discovering the talents of holdovers potentially ready to jump into starting roles.

The impatient Raider rooter might be grumbling over two pre-season losses. But Oakland is in no position to build a winning tradition or momentum — like lesser quality teams. It's already tasted and enjoyed success.

Clubs continually testing reserves, adapting to new systems, under direction of new coaches, and involved with major overhauls attempts to win at all costs. The Raiders don't fit into this category. Seattle, Tampa Bay and the New York Jets do.

It's not the begining of the end when Oakland drops a pre-season encounter. Winning is certainly the focus, building for the real thing has much greater significance.

Should fans feel change running out of their pockets after the final gun sounds?

"It's a glaring misconception when people say there's a big drop off when the rookie comes in," explained LoCasale. "What happens when you take the veteran out, another one comes in. It's when the third unit comes in that you get the rookie.

"I think a lot of fans enjoy seeing the younger ones, trying to guess who is going to make the ball club and try to pick their 43-man rosters. I think they like seeing different people and different approaches to the game. Our particular offense changes in the way it is used from the way our quarterbacks change. I think thye they like that.

"By the time football season rolls around," continued the Raider Executive Assistant since 1969,"people around here are ready to see football. Part of that is created by the fact that other teams playing during the summer haven't been that successful."

The pre-season waste cry seldom comes from patrons, insists LoCasale. It's a popular misconception," as he calls it, from those with the birdseye view.

"It comes mostly from the press," he conceded. "There are certain members in the press that have a personal opinion. That's gospel. It's like chisel and stone. It upsets me when the guy gets in free and could stay home."

But, there's a business side to all of this. Season tickets are easy money in the bank for owners. Adding the six pre-season games to the package means a greater interest dra The money for the tickets must be mailed far in vance.

"The club has to take in a certain amount of money to cover its overhead," LoCasale explained. "And if you don't get it over an 11-game period as opposed to a seven-game period, you're going to be in the boondocks.

"When football teams like New England or Chicago are asked to make a cross-country trip with 70 guys that proves to be very costly. It's disruptive to their practice schedule and it takes a lot of time.

"They're not going to make the trip unless they get a good pay check for it. It's a lot different when the eastern teams play each other. It can mean a difference of a $3,000 bus ride as opposed to a $33,000 plane fare ticket. To get team to come west means it must be economically sound."

Barr, Giants top Pittsburgh

SAN FRANCISCO — Jim Barr got even and the Pittsburgh Pirates again became the Pittsburgh Patsies for the San Francisco Giants.

Barr, going all the way despite a pair of shaky innings, recorded a 6-3, seven-hit, victory over the Pirates that was the Giants' 10th in 12 meetings with the faltering Eastern Division contenders before a Candlestick Park crowd of 4267.

Barr, whose won-lost record leveled at 12 after the win, didn't look to the past performance charts to get him through the afternoon, though, saying, "You could beat an Eastern Division team 11 times in a row and then lose the 12th."

"You can't tell how a single game will turn out."

After Barr squandered an early three-run Giant lead in the second inning, odds were this game would turn out with the erstwhile Lumber Company on top.

With one out in San Francisco's half of the first inning, Tim Foli singled to shallow center and Bill Madlock backed him up with a safety deep into the hole at shortstop. Willie McCovey accounted for the second out with one of three cloud-seeders he lifted to center during the game.

That brought Darrell Evans, who finished the day 4-for-4, up. Evans skied a Bruce Kison pitch to the same area Omar Moreno had run down McCovey's fly but, this time, Moreno could only watch as the ball struck the first row of the football bleachers, giving Evans his 14th home run of the season.

ittsburgh didn't allow the Giants to luxuriate in the lead.

Bill Robinson led off the second with a low liner over the left field fence and Fernando Gonzalez' double combined with a walk to Ed Ott and a single by losing pitcher Kison, now 7-7, to tie the score.

But, said Barr, "I felt pretty strong even when I gave up the three. As long as we'd already got three to back me up, I knew I'd be all right."

Mike Sadek, the third-string catcher in the line-up yesterday due to minor shoulder aches suffered by Marc Hill, doubled and scored on a sacrifice fly in the fifth as the Giants gradually built another lead.

Reliever Grant Jackson walked in a run in the followinginning and singles by Evans and Thomasson set up a run-scoring squeeze bunt by Sadek in the eighth that put the Giants ahead by three entering the last inning.

Barr, who'd stranded pinch-hitter Jim Fregosi at third in the eighth, had to work out of another jam to get the win.

Gonzalez led off with a single and Ott doubled into the left field corner to bring the potential tying run to the plate. But Barr struck out Moreno to end the game.

Giant manager Joe Altobelli, who visited Barr at the mound in each of the final two innings, said he never seriously considered removing the veteran right hander.

"It was kind of a funny situation," said Altobelli of the eighth, when with Fregosi at third, he allowed Barr to stay in the game and retire National League batting leader Dave Parker on a come back bouncer.

"I just reminded him to not give Parker a chance to hit the long ball. Jim was moving the ball well on the outside of the plate and the ones he came in with, he threw the hell out of," Altobelli related.

He also, needlessly, pointed out that anytime one holds Dave Parker and Al Oliver to the grand total of one ground ball single, one has done a commendable job.

As, despite a fourth place standing, has any team that finishes a season series eight games ahead of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Oh belts no. 755, ties Aaron's mark

TOKYO — On an average of once every 10.4 times at bat, the superstar of Japanese baseball, Sadaharu Oh, belts the ball over the fence with his famous raised-leg swing.

That rate over 19 seasons brought him even Wednesday night with the record of 755 career home runs hit by American Hank Aaron, whose rate was one homer every 16.3 times at bat over 23 seasons.

Aaron, who faced tougher pitching and longer fences in U.S. baseball, retired last year with 41 home runs more than Babe Ruth's career record of 714.

When Oh hits No. 756, he stands to receive a new "People's Honor" citation from the Japanese government, becoming the first person so honored. And he says he intends to play ball five more years, in the belief he will be able to hit and field just as well at age 42.

The Japan-born Chinese slugger of Tokyo's Yomiuri Giants tied the record with a two-run homer in the first inning on a 3 - and - 1 pitch against 21 - year - old left-hander Michio Miura of the Taiyo Whales.

The 298-foot drive brought a thunderous ovation from 50,000 spectators at Korakuen Stadium, the Giants' home ground. But Oh said later, "I tied Aaron's record step by step, so I have no special feeling now."

Oh added, "Since my 753rd homer there has been a tense atmosphere in the ballparks. Some home runs come easily but others come more than 10 games apart."

He hit No. 753 against the Hiroshima Carp in Hiroshima, western Japan, 10 days ago. No. 754 came in Tokyo Sunday.

"I feel easy now. I tried to reach the record while my fans were watching me," he said.

Ron Mittelstaedt, left, and Scott Fisher of Fremont have been playing golf continuously at the Sunol course since Tuesday morning. The boys are attempting to establish a world record for consecutive hours played, and under somewhat trying circumstances—lights are unavailable, so they have had to play the night-time hours of the marathon with only lanterns to guide them.

Raiders trade Art Thoms

OAKLAND — Veteran defensive lineman Art Thoms was traded by the Oakland Raiders Wednesday to the Philadelphia Eagles for an undisclosed draft consideration.

Thoms, a five-year starter until suffering a pre-season knee injury a year ago, was trying to make a comeback after missing all of the 1976 season.

"I've known the Eagles were interested in me for two months," said Thoms, 30, a first round draft choice out of Syracuse in 1969. "I'm excited about going back there and getting started." — by Associated Press

Gross' homer defeats Twins

BLOOMINGTON — Wayne Gross slammed his first home run in almost six weeks while Doc Medich and Doug Bair checked Minnesota on six hits as the resurgent Oakland A's defeated the Twins 4-3 Wednesday night.

Medich, 8-6, blanked the Twins on just four hits after the first inning as he won his third straight decision and the A's seventh in the last eight games.

Gross brought Oakland from behind with a two-run homer in the fifth inning off loser Paul Thormodsbard, 10-10, to give the A's a 3-2 lead.

The A's scored what proved to be the winning run in the sixth when Mitchell Page tripled and scored on Jerry Tabb's sacrifice fly.

Medich departed with one out in the ninth inning after Larry Hisle hit his 26th home run of the season. Hisle's home run accounted for his 110th RBI, tops in the American League. Bair got the final two outs to record his third save of the season.

The defeat was a costly one for the Twins, who began play in third place in the American League West but only two games off the pace.

Amador Valley counting on QB Inglesby

The Amador Valley varsity football team runs through pre-season drills at the Pleasanton high school's campus.

When one talks about Amador Valley High School's varsity football team's chances in the upcoming season you have to start with senior quarterback Pat Inglesby.

Inglesby, who started the last half of the 1976 for the Dons, is rated a blue-chip prospect by first-year head coach Duffy Dufour.

"He's defintely a major college prospect," commented Dufour about his ace quarterback. "He could probably play college ball as a quarterback or defensive back."

The 6-2, 180 pound Inglesby can do a lot of things, according to Defour.

"He can run, kick and play defense well," said Dufour. "But his biggest asset is that he has a good head on his shoulders."

But Inglesby isn't the only bright prospect for Amador Valley this year. In fact the Dons have one of their largest turnouts ever this season.

"We have about 50 players out for the varsity," remarked the AV mentor. "We'd like to have about 45-50 when we start the season. We have 17 lettermen returning from last season."

The Dons will run out of the I this year. Tim Monday, up from the junior varsity, has been impressive enough to give Inglesby a fight at quarterback.

"We'll probably split 50-50 between passing and running," Dufour said. "We're deep at fullback with veterans Mike Hoff, Kevin Ching and Brice Schwartzwelder returning."

Amador will also be very strong at tailback where All-East Bay Athletic League star Rob Flores returns. Paul Goodison and Ken Whitaker, each up from the junior varsity, are expected to give Flores a battle for the starting berth. Whitaker was the Dons' leading rusher on the junior varsity squad last season.

Greg Danska, Chuck Gilliam and Matt Sweeney will see a lot of action at the offensive ends for Amador Valley.

The Dons won'r be especially big in either the offensive or defensive lines but they'll have speed, agility and plenty of experience.

Al Garner should mann the starting center spot for AV. He's a 5-11, 185 pounder. At ofensive tackle are Scott Russell (6-3, 205) and Glen Russell (6-3, 230). Chuck Grandon and veteran Ernie Zumbach, one of the EBAL's best shot putters, should also see plenty of action at tackle and guard on offense.

On defense Paul McCleary is the only returning starter in the backfield. However, the Dons have several other players with varsity or junior varsity experience who should fill the gaps created by graduation.

Other returning starters on defense are Hoff, Grandon and Zumbach.

Amador Valley will have about 25 players up from the junior varsity who should add depth to the line-up. While they don't have great overall size many of the new varsity players are at the "skilled positions" and should add a lot to the Dons' striking power.

Dufour thinks defending co-champions Livermore and Granada should be considered slight favorites for the EBAL title at the season's start.

He also rates San Ramon highly.

"I respect their (San Ramon's) passing attack," he said. "They did very well in the summer passing league. Foothill and Dublin should also be solid."

Amador Valley will host Kennedy of Fremont Saturday night in a scrimmage. The Dons start non-league play the next Friday when they travel to Irvington.

Grizzlies gain lights, hope to add title

The California High Grizzlies will take over Granada's role as the East Bay Athletic League's daylight football team this year.

But Cal coach Mike McGinnis is hoping they might be able to take over another role of Granada's, that of EBAL champion, befor the year is over.

Just as the Mats have installed new lights to their stadium, enabling them to enjoy Friday night football for the first time ever at their 13-year old school, the Grizzlies have finished landscaping their lightless field and will play Saturday home games for the first time in the school's five-year history.

Last year, the Grizzlies were given a tour of San Ramon Valley Schools when the time came for them to be host team. If Dublin's field was being used, or if San Ramon's turf had been vandalized in the mud, it was a trip to Monte Vista's field for the Cal team. The Grizzly brass probably wouldn't have minded hiring a traveling secretary just to iron out the merry-go-round.

Admittedly, the Grizzlies have a hard challenge ahead of them if they are to compete with the rest of the EBAL in only their second year in varsity competition. They have yet to win a league game, going 0-7 last year.

But the Grizzlies have increased their number of players on the varsity squad from a mere 22 last year to nearly 40 this time around, and McGinnis sees it as a big factor.

"The idea of competition helps out," he points out. "The players just don't sit back and breeze on the dirt. They know someone else is there to take the job. That makes for a better ballplayer."

The Grizzlies had a respectable offense last year, and the main cogs are returning. Quarterback Tom Woodmansee, halfback Chris Miller, wide receiver Chuck Cary and lineman Tracy Nodlinski.

However, two of the aforementioned are currently shrugging off injury and sickness. Cary hurt his neck the first day of practice and is just now returning, while Miller was out this week with the flu and may be put back because of it.

McGinnis has taken a good look at three running backs, and returning senior Tyler Laurie has been impressive. John Mattson at halfback and Marcus Loyolla at tailback are also improving.

"Depth-wise, these guys are all inexperienced," says McGinnis, "but they're picking up experience daily, which is really good. I think we'll be pretty well-balanced offensively."

Woodmansee leads a Cal offense which os not afraid to pull out the pass at any moment. He threw as much as any QB in the EBAL last year, and hooked up with Cary on many occasions. Cary finished the year among the top five in EBAL receivers.

Matt Dulick is an able backup for Woodmansee.

Defense is the place where Cal has to change its ways, and the Grizzlies are switching to a 5-2 to try and fix the difficulties.

"We're doing a lot of work on defense, but we really haven't secured any starting positions yet," says McGinnis.

Returning lettermen to the defense include defensive end Todd Pelley, linebacker Dan Nelson and Nodlinski. A lot of players will go obth ways, but not to the tiring extent of last season. "We'll try to limit it as much as possible," explained McGinnis, "but they'll know both positions."

"I think the rest of the league is still strong, but I think we're strong," the coach continued. "The team morale is good. We haven't had any quitters."

The Grizzlies open up pre-season play on September 10 at their own field against Benicia at 1:00. They travel to Chabot College to play San Lorenzo on Friday night the 16th, then play at Miramonte on the 23rd.

Their EBAL opener pits them against Livermore on Saturday, October 1 in front of their home fans.

Ivanow prison term to begin

SAN FRANCISCO — Backup goalie Mike Ivanow of the Seattle Sounders has until Sept. 6 to turn himself in to federal authorities to start serving a three-year term for embezzlement.

Ivanow, 31, was sentenced by U.S. District Court Judge Cecil Poole for taking $70,313 while he was manager of the Russian American Credit Union here between last August and February.

Poole said Ivanow used the money for three trips to Europe and to buy a house and a car.

Gilliam cut by Saints

Veteran quarterbacks Joe Gilliam and Gary Marangi were among the players on the move Wednesday as National Football League teams announced roster cuts that reduced squad sizes to 52 players—nine above the opening day limit.

Gilliam, trying to come back after beating a drug habit, was cut by the New Orleans Saints after missing several practices. He had played in three exhibition games, completing seven of 19 passes and had fallen behind three other Saints' passers — Archie Manning, Bobby Douglass and Bobby Scott.

In other moves, the Saints dropped veteran running back Leon McQuay, second-year guard Ed McAleney and rookies Rick Rivas, a kick returner, and Raphael Septian, a placekicker.

Marangi, backup quarterback for Buffalo, was traded to Green Bay for an undisclosed draft choice. He became a regular for the Bills midway through last season when Joe Ferguson was injured, but he had a dismal season and was beaten out by rookie Ken Johnson this year.

In another trade, the Bills swapped a draft choice to the New York Jets for kick return specialist Lou Piccone. Buffalo also dropped veteran defensive end Billy Newsome, acquired earlier in a trade with the Jets, defensive back Van Green and two rookies — defensive back Mike Nelms and punter Wilbur Summers.

After trading Piccone to Buffalo, the Jets claimed running back John Smith on waivers from Dallas and placed Ron Kecman, a free agent center from Maryland, on injured reserve.

The St. Louis Cardinals dropped three veterans with a total of 17 years of NFL experience. Cut were wide receiver Mel Baker, who was starting his fourth season, linebacker Al Beauchamp, in his 10th year, and strong safety Neal Craig, who has been in the league for five seasons.

Cut by Atlanta were rookie quarterback June Jones, wide receiver Karl Farmer and tight end Bob Adams, a nine-year NFL veteran.

San Diego placed cornerback Danny Colbert on injured reserve. He will miss the entire season because of a badly bruised left shoulder.

Also placed on limited injured reserve was Kansas City running back Woody Green, who is recovering from a knee injury. The Chiefs will have to make some permanent disposition of his status by Nov. 1.

Kansas City also released quarterback Mike Nott and rookie running back Andre Herrera, a sixth-round draft choice from Southern Illinois.

San Ramon FB on target

DANVILLE — San Ramon High School's football team will be a "tough and competitive club," when it begins its 1977 season, says the man who should know. The Wolves, numbering over 65 varsity hopefuls, are working out twice a day in preparation for a scrimmage Saturday night at home against Kennedy High of Richmond.

Lyle Setencich, beginning his second season at the helm at San Ramon, believes this year's version will be benefitted by "a solid coaching staff that's better organized in both numbers and knowledge."

The Wolves had an up-and-down year in 1976, finishing second in the East Bay Athletic League with a 4-3 mark behind Granada and Livermore, and turned in a 6-4 overall mark.

This season, the Wolves will rely on returning quarterbacks Guy Houston, a senior letterman and junior Troy Thomas to direct the offensive "Veer" attack, along with senior Mike Campbell to anchor the defense from his secondary spot.

Houston and Thomas split quarterbacking duties a year ago due to injuries, each starting five games and directing an offense that averaged 21 passes per game. Campbell was on the receiving end of many of those aerials and garned second-team all-league honors as a wide receiver.

"We're going to develop a more balanced offense," says Setench, "by working on our running game." The Kennedy High scrimmage should provide a suitable testing ground for that part of the Wolves' potentially powerful offense.

Only 12 returnees bless the San Ramon roster this year, and the squad is not going to awe any opponent it'll face with individual-size. Setencich says overall bulk or lack ot it and few players in reserve are the team's weaknesses.

"We're a very quick squad," he said. "But because we don't have a lot of size aside from one 210-pound lineman, we'regoing to have to work to develop our depth at most positions."

As for San Ramon's assets. Setencich likes the overall team balance he ses in this year's squad and the obvious strength of the passing game. His own first year lssons should help the team too.

"I know the league and pretty much what each opponent will try to do," he admitted, "plus I know my own personal a lot better."

Seniors Joe Pappalardo, a wide receiver, and Randy Huddleston, a 155-pound running back, should help to amke t make the Wolves' offense a threat to every foe. Setencich will alternate between a 5-2 and 4-3 defense during the year, hoping to offset the size disadvantage San Ramon will have against other teams with shifting defensive setups and the Wolves' team quickness.

Farmers drop RT

Exploding for nine runs in the fifth inning Farmers' Insurance took a thrilling 22-18 victory over Round Table Pizza in Livermore Area Recreation men's B League softball action Tuesday.

A triple by Dick Williamson and doubles by Jay Chubb, Pat Halia and Dotch Vancy sparked the Farmers' fifth-inning drive. Williamson's triple drove in three runs.

Williamson, Bib Krecher, Bob Bronzon and Gil Cruz each had three hits for the winners. Bronzon, Cruz and Chuck Visher each tallied three times.

Round Table Pizza scored five times in the last two innings to close the gap, but a bit too late.

Kip McDonald, Bill Hahn and Dave Badford each had three hits for the losers.

McDonald slammed a home run in the second inning to give Round Table a brief 5-3 lead but the winners came back with four runs of their own to take a 7-5 advantage in their half of the second.

A grand-slam homer by Fruz accounted for all the Farmers' second-inning runs.

The winners added five more runs in the third stanza on two doubles and three singles.

Circle rolled over Kings' Birgade 10-4, scoring eight runs in the second stanza. A home run by Tud Lohti brought in three runs.

Larry Nadeau belted a two-run homer for the winners in the third inning.

The winners had 12 hits and the losers picked up 10.

Joe Herrington smashed a triple. Tom King added a triple and two doubles for the losers.

Brian Bates, Nadeau and Steve Evaristo each had two hits for the winners.

Soul Connection edged out Robles Concrete 8-6, scoring twice in the bottom of the seventh.

With the score tied 6-6 Larry Brunson flied out but Mike Harter doubled. Rudy Oliver then blasted a two-run homer to put the game away for Soul Connection.

Robles Concrete scored five times in the top of the seventh to tie the score. Doubles by Danny Bernacil and Ray Ancria sparked the rally.

Ancria led the losers with two singles and the double. Robles Concrete had nine hits in all and the winners picked up 11.

Harter belted two doubles and scored once to lead the winners. Donald Whitten belted a single and double for Soul Connection.

Eagletar works well, Pacara assigned 127

SAN MATEO — Eagletar, Washington state's top two-year old last season, covered five furlongs in 59 3/5 yesterday in a prep for the $25,000-added Bay District Stakes at Bay Meadows Labor Day.

Idle since a juvenile campaign that featured four wins and earnings of $79,328 against many of the top colts in the nation, Eagletar makes his three-year old debut on opening day here.

Owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peek, Eagletar is expected to face Del Mar winners Shipmate Sam, Decoded, Nascinto and Winsor Pete as well as local stakes winners Grey Moon Runner and El Condor.

Meanwhile, dozens of thoroughbreds are arriving at Bay Meadows' stables daily and a capacity backstretch crowd of 1450 quadrapeds is expected by next week. Among the larger stables arriving are those trained by last year's leader Mike Mitchell, Bobby Martin, Bill Mastrangelo, Walter Greenman, John Longden, Eric Longden, Don Porter, Martin Kenney, Kathy Walsh, Jerry Fanning, Gene Cleveland, C.B. Hixon, Bill McKeans, Ike Orr and Jim Benedict.

At the California State Fair, it was announced yesterday that Argentine-bred Pacara has been assigned top weight of 127 pounds for the $12,000-added Mother Lode Handicap to be contested Tuesday, closing day of the fair circuit.

Winner of three stakes this year, Pacara was weighted along with seventeen other nominees for the filly and mare championship and one and one-sixteenth miles.

Other nominees with their weights are: Lutecia, 119; Latent Legacy, 117; Summer Evening, 116; Shamara, 114; Winter Sleet, 112; Contour Miss, 111; Gallant Outlook, 111; Look Quick, 111; Never Cloud, 111; Telegram, 111; Scurrilous, 109; Thoughtful, 107; Breicei's, 106; Tattling, 106; Royal Marriage, 105; Society Kid, 105 and Pleasure Bird, 103.

AV bus tickets

Today is the last day to pick up bus tickets for the Amador Valley High School Booster Club's trip to Modesto Sept. 24 for the Dons' varsity and junior varsity football games.

There will be dinner after the doubleheader. The bus will leave the school at 4:30 p.m. and return at 1 a.m.

The Booster Club will also conduct a spaghetti dinner Sept. 16 in the school cafeteria. The dinner will be open from 4:30-9 p.m. and will bring together the Dons and Tracy booster clubs.

Tickets may be purchashed at the Amador Student Activities Office and are priced at $2 for adults and $1 for students.

GAEL SCRIMMAGE

Friends of Dublin High School football players are invited to a get-acquainted session following the Gaels' scrimmage with Mt. Eden tomorrow.

The scrimmage starts at 7:30 p.m. on the Dublin field.

FAMILY FOOTBALL

Livermore High School has also announced its family season ticket sales for the football season. The price is $18 per family, including five home varsity/JV doubleheaders and four freshmen home games.

The ticket will admit two adults and all members of the family under high school age. Tickets go on sale Tuesday in the Dean's Office at the school between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

MUST MEETING

A mandatory meeting for all Livermore Soccer Club coaches is scheduled for Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Livermore Recreation Center. Every Livermore soccer team must be represented by a coach or alternate. Parents and boys registered with the Livermore Soccer Club are also to attend as California Youth Soccer Association coaches kits, club information and league schedules will be distributed. Rule changes will also be discussed.

BIG CHANCE

Five amateur golfers will qualify for the field of the Sarah Coventry LPGA golf tournament at Round Hill Country Club by way of a Sept. 12 tourney. Entry fee of $30 must reach Round Hill Country Club, 3169 Round Hill Road, Alamo, 94507 by Wednesday. All woman amateurs with a handicap of 10 or better are eligible.

TRACY TUSSLES

A wrist-wrestling tournament, a tune-up for the World Championships in Petaluma later in the fall, is scheduled for Sept. 8 at the American Legion Hall in Tracy.

Weigh-ins will begin at 8 a.m. with matches following at 1 p.m. Four weight divisions for men and one open division for women will be contested. Further information is available by calling (209) 835-0528, (209) 836-0039 or (209) 835-6794.

Amateur golf upset

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa. — Mike Toomey, a little known amateur from Crofton, Md., upset Vance Heafner, one of America's Walker Cup stars, in the first round Wednesday of the 77th U.S. National Amateur Golf Championship.

In another highlight of the eight-round match play tournament, which runs through Labor Day, defending champion Bill Sander survived a suddendeath hole and ousted surprisingly tough Radford Yaun of Grossinger's, N.Y.

Play was delayed for 1 hour, 41 minutes in late afternoon by a rain and lightning storm, and later was called off because of darkness with some 16 matches still on the course. They'll be resumed Thursday.

Vancouver's royal feast

The B.C. Bon Vivant reports smooth sailing on the gastronomical seas north of the border!

Having set sail the 19th of August last, with a due north bearing along I-5, we arrived upon the bay of salmon delight and English mixed grill a day later.

The gourmet fare of Vancouver, British Columbia, will delight the most princely of epicurean taste whether it be in the realm of sea food, veddy British beef and Yorkshire pudding or something in the exotic Greek or Far East realms.

Though Vancouver has the largest Chinese population outside of San Francisco — on the North American continent — its particular lure to the gourmet rests in the diversity of styles and menus.

After initial forays to seafood-specialty houses, we were determined to "Go British" (or Continental) the third night. This is not to slight the seafood at the Devonshire in downtown Vancouver, or the offerings (and excellent service) at the top of the Holiday Inn City Centre.

And yes, Andre, one CAN find something other than rubber chicken and soggy peas in a Holiday Inn restaurant!

The selection was the Three Greenhorns, more a Continental-East Indian style house. The "atmosphere" of oak paneling, rich dark browns and muted reds, with abundant glasswork and silver, makes one susceptible to not only the well-prepared curry dishes but the beef as well.

But the real "star" of this B.C. junket proved the Olde England Inn, tucked away in the country atmosphere of Lampson Street a couple of miles from downtown Victoria.

Entrance to the Inn is gained by driving up a short rise that brings one cheek-by-jowl against a pair of English Bobbies who direct you to a parking spot near a replica of Anne Hathaway's house or the English Village shops.

Guests may opt, as we did, for "The King's Choice," grain-fed Alberta beef aged to perfection. The ample portion comes with Yorkshire pudding, pomme de terre, and a vegetable "in season" from Anne Hathaway's garden.

The Burger Pit located at 8000 Amador Valley Blvd., features a fine selection of steaks, burgers, selected fish dishes and a choice of two soups. Prime rib at the Burger Pit is known for its mouth watering tenderness and makes an excellent combination with their build-your-own salad bar. Stop by the Burger Pit and try their fine food at reasonable prices. They are open seven days a week.

Mally's piles on the food

LIVERMORE — No one walks away from Mally's without getting stuffed to the ears.

Peter Lun, owner of the Chinese-American restaurant on First Street, always sees to it that customers get filled up on his lip-smacking dishes.

One of the best features about Peter Lun's place is that anyone can get a meal there anytime of the day or night. The doors at Mally's are open 24 hours a day.

Peter joked about his business by saying he should have named it "St. Peter's Dining Hall," because of the many meals he's fixed for deprived folks around town.

"Poor people come in," Peter said, "and they eat for nothing."

He has a whole drawer chock-full of meal tickets dating back several years which tell the story of the many people he has given a generous dinner to.

Charitable organizations such as St. Vincent DePaul, the Salvation Army, the Red Cross, and churches write up meal requests for needy people and send them to Peter.

Many of these hungry individuals are sent to Mally's by the Livermore — Amador Emergency Fund and even the Granada Bowl.

Peter makes a delicious bowl of home-made bean cake soup with Chinese vegetables that is out of this world. Anyone dining at Mally's should not miss this hot, savory treat it's seasoned just right and always served piping hot.

While sipping the soup, it is not uncommon to hear Peter whistling away back in the kitchen, mustering up the main course. He always heaps on the food and it gets to your table so fast that Peter must be bustling around back there on roller skates.

The service at Mally's is great and the waitresses never fail to add that home-town, personal touch.

There are a thousand and one items to choose from on the menu and if it's not listed just ask Peter — he'll brew it up for you. In case you can't decide what to eat, try the club sandwich. It comes with french fries, and is stacked with triple decks of crisp bacon, hearty turkey, tomato, lettuce, and mayo on toasted bread. It will fill you to the gills and leave only one word on your lips — Thanks Peter for all you've done.

Quality food county

Rosellini says new restaurants face increasing competition, though, and stresses that consumers are more quality-conscious than ever before.

"People are better informed, they read more and travel more," he said. "Whatever the new restaurants do, they'll have to do it well. They'll have to buy choice or finest-grade meats and prepare them well. They'll have to have self-parking and they must have happy people doing the serving."

Today's fast-food restaurants are no longer exclusively takeout establishments, and many have dining areas where patrons can eat their meal. Although he sees table service as the next logical step, Rosellini isn't sure it will pay off for franchisers.

Fast food craze rolls in money with ethnic appeal

By STEPHEN FOX
AP Business Writer

LOS ANGELES AP — Victor Rosellini peered into the fast-food future the other day and saw a profusion of "ethnic" establishments.

"Mexican food is moving all over the country," said Rosellini, president of the National Restaurant Association. "The German restaurant is coming into its own again. You're going to see more Greek food. The Japanese are becoming an influence. People are accepting fish and you'll be seeing more fish bars in the near future."

Americans are now spending about one-third of their food dollars in restaurants and takeout stores. Ten years ago, the ratio was one in five and the NRA estimates that ten years from now, half of all food dollars will be spent away from supermarkets.

Restaurant sales in the first six months of 1977 grew at the rate of 10.3 percent, 50 percent faster than food store sales. Rosellini, a S9attle restaurateur, credits rising personal incomes and the diversity of restaurants for the greater gains.

"People have more disposable income," he says. "There are more families where the husband and wife both work and they naturally eat out more often. And they have a variety of places to go — from fast-food to luxury restaurants. They can make their own decision on where to go tonight and how much to spend."

Increasingly, that decision turns out to be an ethnic restaurant, the fastest-growing segment of the business with annual sale growth of about 25 percent.

"This isn't a fad," Rosellini maintains. "These restaurants have a clientele that likes them and they're expanding.

The traditional American appetite for hamburgers, hot dogs, french fries and so on hasn't suffered either, says Rosellini. The number of franchised restaurants in the United States grew 10 percent last year to a total of 47,000.

McDonald's is still far and away the biggest, with almost 20 percent of the market and a 21 percent sales growth in 1976. Next is Kentucky Fried Chicken, with 8.5 percent of the market and a 17 percent sales growth from 1975 to 1976. But the appeal of ethnic food is evident — Pizza Hut's sales rose more than 38 percent, making it the fastest-growing chain in the country.

Despite the profusion of fast-food outlets, Rosellini thinks there's still room for new ideas.

Dublin man named new VMH director

LIVERMORE — Thomas Schweser of Dublin has been appointed to a director - at - large position on the Valley Memorial Hospital board of directors to fill the unexpired term of Emily Schwarz, who resigned last month.

Thomas Schweser

A resident of Dublin for 14 years, Schweser is an employe of the planning and design department of the East Bay Regional Parks District.

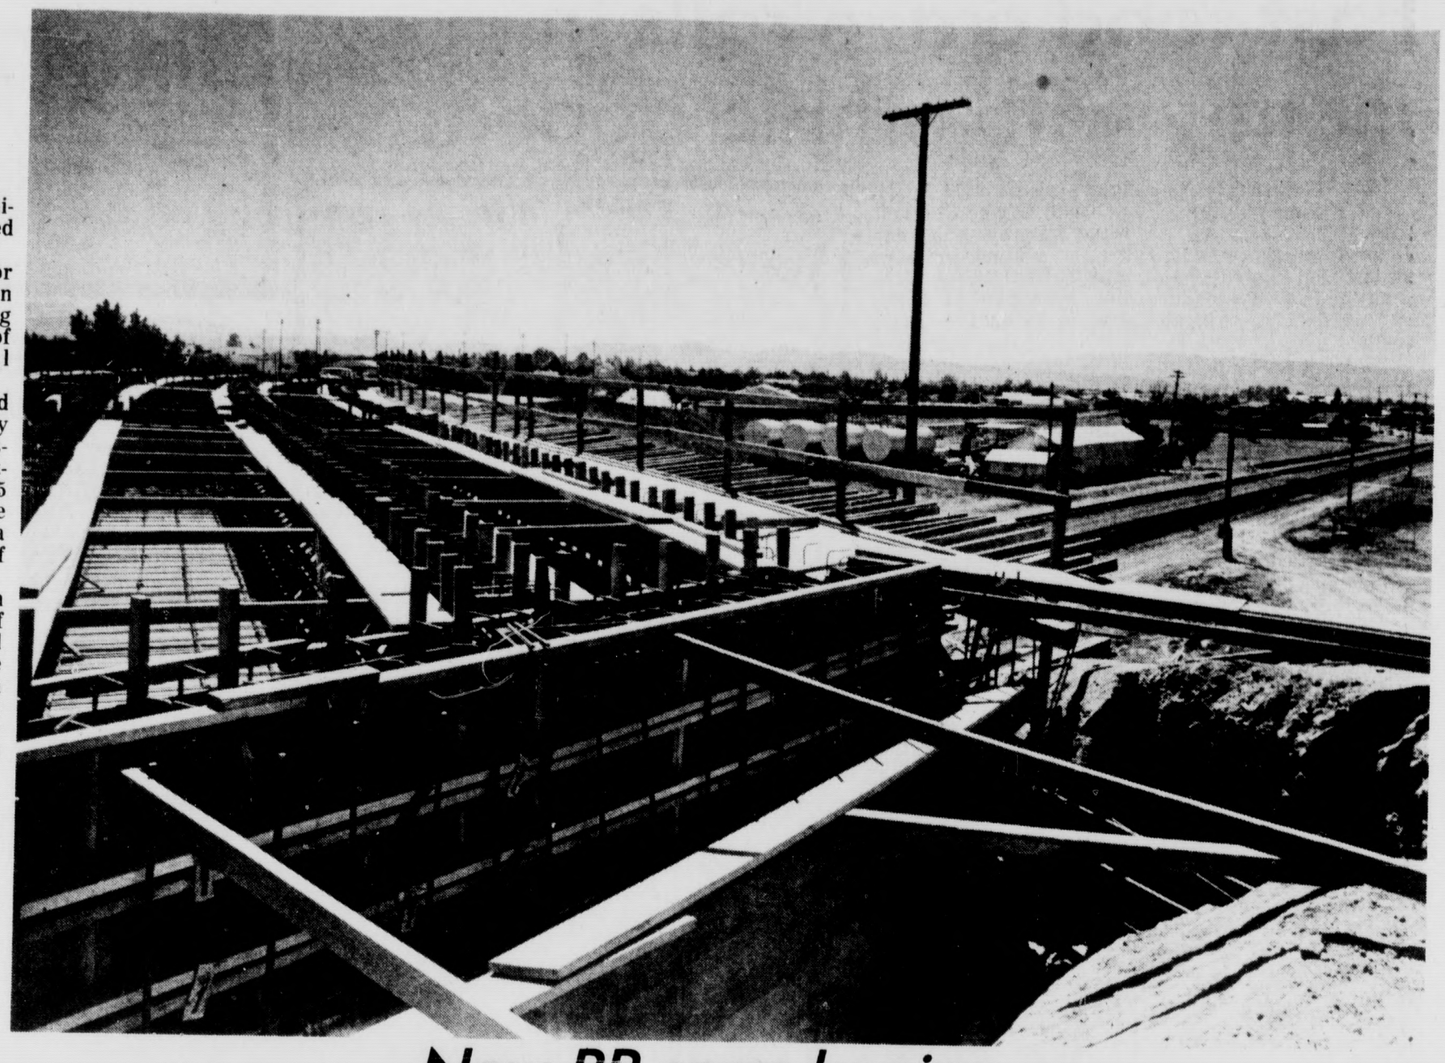
A former director and president of the Valley Community Services District, Schweser was defeated by Schwarz in the 1975 VMH board election. He ran unsuccessfully for a seat on the Zone 7 board of directors in June, 1976.

He currently serves on the boards of directors of the California Mental Health Association and the Mental Health Association of Alameda County. He is the chairman of the county Local Agency Formation Commission.

A member of the Dublin - San Ramon Lions Club, he resides with his wife and two children in Dublin.

Schwarz has decided to remain indefinitely in Austria where she has been living during the last 18 months. A past member of the VMH Auxiliary, she also served for a year on the administrative staff of the hospital.

Schweser's at-large term expires in February, 1978.



New RR span begins

Concrete will flow heavily today as workmen near completion on the first phase of the railroad relocation project for Highway 84 in Livermore. A four-lane overcrossing over the Southern Pacific and Western Pacific railroad tracks will eliminate the First Street grade crossing when completed at the end of next summer. Construction crews will begin pouring 550 cubic yards of concrete today at 6 a.m. and continue into the afternoon, a city spokesperson said.

Memorial to youth

A memorial plaque near Lizzie Fountain marks the spot where today a redwood tree will be planted to honor the memory of Patrick Butterfield, a Livermore native who died in an auto accident in Wyoming recently at the age of 20. Patrick attended local schools and graduated from Granada High School in 1975. The tree and plaque have been donated by the William O'Brian family of Livermore, whose son, David, was a close friend of Patrick's. Both the Butterfield and the O'Brian families will attend the tree planting ceremony at 1 p.m. today at the corner of First Street and Livermore Avenue.

Park district offers special kids' programs

New fall programs have been announced by the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District including magic, children's theater and a variety of nature and ecology programs.

Magician Richard Bunting-Hill has scheduled a series on magic instruction for children and adults to be presented on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Bunting-Hill, perhaps best known for his fire-eating trick, has taught LARPD classes in the past and will include basic tricks, magic history and the great performers in this year's series.

Theater for children in grades 6, 7, 8 and 9 will be presented by Mrs. Gale Warshawsky. The class will feature instruction in the fundamentals of acting, makeup, scenery, lighting and costuming. Backstage work as well as performing will be stressed and all participants will be part of the class finale either onstage or as part of the production crew.

Staff naturalist Alice Tetlow-Noyes has planned two special one-day workshops for youngsters as part of the fall nature series. "Pond Lurkers," for children aged 6 to 12 years will explore plant and animal pond life Sept. 24 at Veterans Park. The cost is $3. "Outdoor Art," a workshop in art and nature will be held Nov. 5. LARPD will also continue its "Mother Nature" class for children 3½ to 5 years and a parent and classes in nature and ecology for children aged 6 to 8 years.

Dancer and choreographer Helga Ishikata will teach ballet, preballet and creative dance classes for youngsters and adults on Tuesdays and Thursdays and a modern dance class for adults Tuesdays. Classes are also scheduled in social dance for couples, teen tap dance and rhythmn.

Classes for tots this fall include Kindermovement and last year's popular "Mommy and Me" programs.

Art and craft classes, cultural and instructional sport lessons and a full schedule of adult sports are included in the new LARPD brochure which will be mailed to Livermore homes Sept. 8. Registration for all classes except those designated as mail-in will be Thursday, Sept. 15 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Recreation Center, 8th and H Streets. Registration will continue Friday, Sept. 16 at the LARPD offices, 71 Trevarno Rd., until all classes are filled.

Christmas time in the city

PLEASANTON — Believe it or not, the city's recreation department is warming up for Christmas.

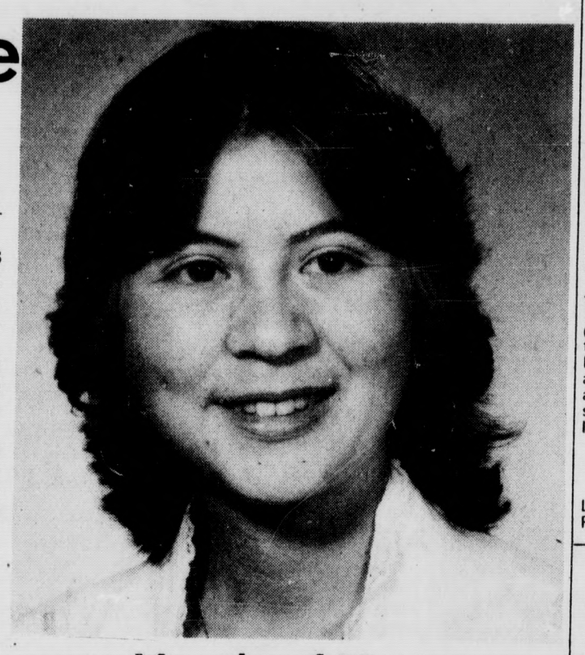
Registrations for the city's pre-school Christmas Class will be held next month.

The classes, slated for Dec. 5 through 9, include a visit to the Christmas Tree Farm, baking "goodies," Christmas crafts, surprise presents, party day with magic and puppets, and a surprise visit from you-know-whom.

Classes for 3-year-olds will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday, Dec. 5 - 9, 10 a.m. to noon. The fee is $12.

Four-year-olds get daily Christmas classes the same week at the same time. The fee is $17.

Registration will be open from Nov. 7 through 21 at the recreaton department office in city hall on Bernal Ave.



Youth of Year

Pat Aquino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Agusto Aquino of Dublin has been selected Youth of the Year by the Southern Alameda County Chapter of the California Credit Union League. Pat, an honors graduate from Dublin High School in June, will represent the chapter in the state competition Nov. 18 in Sacramento. She is currently employed by Operating Engineers Local Union No.3 Credit Union in Dublin. Pat will attend California State University, Hayward in the fall and plans to major in business administration.

Ceramics: learn basic skill

PLEASANTON — A class in the introduction to ceramics will be offered as part of the city's fall recreation department.

Classes will be held on Tuesdays, Sept. 20 to Nov. 8 at the Cultural Arts Center.

The fee is $12 for 8 lessons. Lilli Briant is the instructor.

Children 6- to 9-years-old will attend from 3:30 to 5 p.m.; children 10- to 13-years-old from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

The course will be an introduction to the basic tecnhiques of class building with slat and coil.

Registration will be held from 6 to 8 p.m., Sept. 12, and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sept. 13, at the Cultural Arts Center, 4477 Black Ave.

Jewelry classes open

PLEASANTON — Jewelry making classe will be offered as part of the city's fall recreation program, according to department officials.

The classes, held Thursdays from Sept. 15 to Nov. 17, entail pins, chains, pendants, earrings, beads, enameling and feather jewelry. Students will need a hammer and pliers for the class.

Classes for 8- to 12-year-olds will be held from 4 to 5 p.m.; 9- to 13-year-olds from 5 to 6 p.m. at the Cultural Arts Center.

The fee is $15 for 10 lessons.

Registration will be held from 6 to 8 p.m., Sept. 12, and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sept. 13, at the Cultural Arts Center, 4477 Black Ave.

Spots left in city pre-school classes

PLEASANTON — There still are a few openings for 4- and 5-year-olds in the city's pre-school classes, according to recreation department officials.

Noon to 2 p.m. classes on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, Sept. 12 through November 18 are still available, although space is limited.

Morning classes for 4- and 5-year-olds and all classes for 3- and 4-year-olds are filled.

Available classes cost $48, and are taught by Carol Whelan.

Those interested should register at the city's recreation department in city hall, 200 Bernal Ave.

Reno booming, despite some fears

By GARY PEDERSEN
Associated Press Writer

RENO, Nev. (AP) — The skyline of this once sleepy city in northern Nevada most well known for divorce has the look of big money these days.

Looming just east of downtown is the MGM Grand Hotel Casino — the world's biggest casino — scheduled for opening next year. It's costing about $114 million and investors expect a quick return.

In addition, seven other hotel-casino projects are under way in the "Biggest Little City in the World."

The reason for the boom? It's gambling, Nevada's biggest business. As one gaming official put it, "They aren't building all those new casinos because gambling is a losing operation."

But with development has come concern the area can't handle the rapid growth, can't supply water and necessary services — and isn't emotionally ready for the boom.

"Now it's growing so fast here that ordinary working people who'll get these new jobs being created won't be able to afford a house," said Barbara Bennett, who ran unsuccessfully for the City Council as an opponent of the building boom.

Nevertheless, hammerhead cranes and the steel skeletons of highrise buildings mark the downtown area. Besides the MGM, Del Webb's Primadonna is being joined by the $37 million Sahara Reno, in Sparks, John Ascuaga's Nugget is working on a sizable expansion, and so is Harrah's in downtown Reno.

City officials say much of the construction money is coming from Reno and its banks. Investors have known for years that solid gaming operations in central Reno are money-makers. Harrah's, for example, announced recently its earnings for the 1976-77 fiscal year were $4 million more than the year before.

Those who want to see Reno stay the way it was, with guest ranches and lots of room on the meandering Truckee River, say development is causing a growth pattern the area can't handle.

With completion of the work will come an estimated 10,000 jobs, officials estimate, and experts predict those people could require 40,000 more service-related jobs in the future. Reno's population today is about 170,000, and forecasts indicate another 30,000 residents by 1980.

For a while this year, building in the Truckee Meadows residential area was halted by city councils in Reno and neighboring Sparks. Both held there wasn't enough capacity in the cities' joint sewer plant to accommodate new customers.

Businessmen, builders and unions were up in arms. Before the move, residents of both cities voted down a $7 million bond issue to double the size of the sewer plant. The issue came up again after the building moratorium and passed.

Enjoying flowers indoors after the summer is over

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Summer is almost ended but you can extend it in several ways other than going South, which isn't a bad way either.

First, you can dig some flowers from your garden, pot them and bring them indoors before frost so you can enjoy them for weeks. Suitable are strawflowers, begonias, impatiens, small zinnias and marigolds, and herbs, among many others.

A good idea is to pot more than you need, tossing out those that do not recover from transplanting.

Best for transplanting are small, sturdy plants. Carefully lift them from the ground, set them into a pot large enough for the soil ball, and fill around the ball with good garden or plant potting soil. Water generously and keep them outdoors in the shade for a week.

Take them indoors when frost threatens. The reason for leaving them outdoors for a while is to help them become reestablished in better light, humidity and temperature. Of course, if you have a cold frame or greenhouse, use it to help the plants become reestablished.

If the plant tops are too big for the pot, do some trimming to realign the proportions.

Remember also that plants that grew in the garden appreciate bright winter light, such as a south window. While begonias like shade, they will flower better in bright indoor light until spring, when they should be exposed to less light.

You can't expect summer annuals to last all winter, so toss them out as they decline.

Herbs brought indoors want a cool window. Among those that will transplant without much difficulty are rose geranium, thyme, winter savory, rosemary, apple mint and peppermint.

Some plants become too large outdoors to be repotted, but taking cuttings is satisfactory. Geranium and begonia will root in sand, vermiculite or perlite.

Plants brought indoors should be fertilized about every two weeks with a water soluble food. Before you take them into the house make sure they have been cleaned of insects and checked for disease.

This is the time to be looking in your garden and deciding which flowers you can dry to provide winter color for your home.

Because they keep their color best, we suggest you dry white, light blue or yellow flowers.

Small flowers may be tied upside down in bunches, hung so that heads are not touching, and stored in a dry, well ventilated attic to dry for about three weeks. You'll have to tie big flowers individually.

Other flowers may be dried with borax or silica gel. Use this treatment with lilies, delphinium, choral bells and pansies, foxglove, petunias, snapdragons or gladiolus, which cannot be done upside down. The flowers should be picked just before they reach their prime. Put them in two inches of borax or silica gel and sprinkle more on until they are covered. In one to three weeks — depending on the flower size — remove, handling gingerly, and blow off residue.

For pressing flowers already flat (such as pansies) place the flower between two sheets of newspaper and put folded newspaper in a book or magazine with more books on top for weight.

Press the bloom open in a natural position. Stored in a warm, dry place, the newspaper should be changed twice during the week of drying to absorb the flower moisture. The flowers should become crisp.
